SENATOR CHAMBERS: Just briefly, so it won't seem like I am derelicting my promise to him when he might would have closed. I think what Senator Goodrich may be trying to do, he tried to stratagem the other day to delay the bill. He is trying to kill it now by saying put everybody you can think of who might deal in a traded item or something like that so that those people then lobby you very heavily and say kill the bill. This amendment, I think, is reasonable. As Senator Burrows pointed out originally, perhaps in the original statute junk dealers should have not been included but at least this does not put them under requirements that are not essential due to the kind of activities they engage in. It can easily be established the problem that is being related to the pawnbrokers and we have gone through all of that. This amendment does not change any of the bill that dealt with the pawnbrokers. I hope you will adopt this amendment.
